I have been searching and researching for the past couple days all about this. I think I have finally come to an understanding, but I would like some clarity if someone has experience with this. I have a 2004 1.8T and from what I've found it has a slightly different PCV valve design from earlier (prior to 2003) A4s. After much searching, here is a picture of what the pcv valve on my car looks ...
