In my essay, I examine three criticisms of the movie The Wolf of Wall Street and I evaluate their claims that the movie is immoral. My claim is that even though the movie shows a lot of immoral behaviour and shows how fun it can be, the movie in itself is not immoral in the same way that the movie Cars shows how fun driving fast is, but it is immoral because it may make people want to drive fast.

Stone's "Wall Street" is a radical critique of the capitalist trading mentality, and it obviously comes at a time when the financial community is especially vulnerable. The movie argues that most small investors are dupes, and that the big market killings are made by men such as Gekko, who swoop in and snap whole companies out from under the noses of their stockholders.
